ABOUT SATs

A few facts, and a healthy way to think about them

- SATs usually take place in mid-May, over one week.
- They help your teachers understand how you're getting on — they are not a pass or fail test.
- Your teachers already know how brilliant you are. SATs are just one small snapshot of your learning.

THINGS I CAN CONTROL vs. THINGS I CAN'T CONTROL

I CAN CONTROL

- How much I revise
- Going to bed on time
- Asking for help when I'm stuck
- Trying my best
- Taking slow breaths if I feel nervous

I CAN'T CONTROL

- Which questions come up
- How anyone else does
- The weather on the day
- How I felt about a past test
- What happens after I hand my paper in

Remember:

Feeling a bit nervous is normal — it means you care. Take a breath. You've got this.

WEEKLY REVISION TIMETABLE

TOP TIPS FOR REVISING WELL

Practical habits that make revision time count

STUDY TIPS

- Little and often beats one long cram session.
- Test yourself with practice questions instead of just re-reading notes.
- Explain a tricky topic to someone else — if you can teach it, you know it.
- Mark your own mock paper honestly using the mark scheme.
- Spend extra time on your amber and red topics from the checklists.

WELLBEING REMINDERS

- Get a good night's sleep, especially during test week.
- Take real breaks — stretch, get some fresh air, have a drink of water.
- Eat a proper breakfast on test mornings.
- Talk to a teacher or family member if you're feeling worried.
- Remember: one test doesn't define you.

NIGHT BEFORE & EXAM DAY

A simple checklist so the morning feels calm

THE NIGHT BEFORE

- ☐ Pack your bag and pencil case
- ☐ Lay out your school uniform
- ☐ Check you have pencils, a ruler and a rubber
- ☐ Go to bed at your normal time
- ☐ Avoid last-minute cramming — trust the work you've already done

THE MORNING OF

- ☐ Eat a proper breakfast
- ☐ Leave home in good time
- ☐ Have a calm start — no rushing

DURING THE TEST

- ☐ Read each question twice before answering
- ☐ Do the questions you find easiest first
- ☐ If you're stuck, move on and come back later
- ☐ Check your answers if you have time left

You've prepared well. Take a breath and do your best — that's all anyone can ask of you.
